Program Manager: Resiliency Consulting Practice
Immediate Opening in New Jersey

A long-term client of ours has retained our firm to help them find an individual to be a key member of their Resiliency Consulting Practice.

As you're aware, Governor Murphy has been placing a stronger focus on resiliency since Super Storm Sandy in 2012. Since that time, the NY/NJ region has had 14 other hurricanes or tropical storms affect the area. Our client is 100% committed to growing this ever-important business sector of the industry, and this person would be at the forefront of leading our clients' efforts.

Our client is already doing important work in this arena. As Program Manager, this person would be working directly with the President and Vice President, so this opportunity brings much leadership potential and freedom. The Program Manager would also be working with an excellent team of data management and visualization specialists, environmental engineers, and marine and earth scientists to address the threats of climate change.

Here are a few key benefits of this position:

- Above average benefits.
- The chance to be a part of a firm with many existing business relationships with the agencies within the NY/NJ region.
- A leadership opportunity at a firm well-respected within the climate change industry.
- A chance to make a true impact, and exercise a lot of freedom within the role.

If you would like to learn more about this opportunity, please contact us immediately.
